20. Mediation, Arbitration, Appeal, Reconsideration, and Administrative and Judicial Review

(a) If you and we fail to agree on any determination made by us except those specified in section 20(d) or (e), the disagreement may be resolved through mediation in accordance with section 20(g). If resolution cannot be reached through mediation, or you and we do not agree to mediation, the disagreement must be resolved through arbitration in accordance with the rules of the American Arbitration Association (AAA), except as provided in sections 20(c) and (f), and unless rules are established by FCIC for this purpose. Any mediator or arbitrator with a familial, financial or other business relationship to you or us, or our agent or loss adjuster, is disqualified from hearing the dispute.

(1) All disputes involving determinations made by us, except those specified in section 20(d) or (e), are subject to mediation or arbitration. However, if the dispute in any way involves a policy or procedure interpretation, regarding whether a specific policy provision or procedure is applicable to the situation, how it is applicable, or the meaning of any policy provision or procedure, either you or we must obtain an interpretation from FCIC in accordance with 7 CFR part 400, subpart X or such other procedures as established by FCIC.

- (i) Any interpretation by FCIC will be binding in any mediation or arbitration.
- (ii) Failure to obtain any required interpretation from FCIC will result in the nullification of any agreement or award.
- (iii) An interpretation by FCIC of a policy provision is considered a determination that is a matter of general applicability.
- (iv) An interpretation by FCIC of a procedure may be appealed to the National Appeals Division in accordance with 7 CFR part 11.

(d) With respect to good farming practices:

(1) We will make decisions regarding what constitutes a good farming practice and determinations of assigned production for uninsured causes for your failure to use good farming practices.

- (i) If you disagree with our decision of what constitutes a good farming practice, you must request a determination from FCIC of what constitutes a good farming practice before filing any suit against FCIC.
- (ii) If you disagree with our determination of the amount of assigned production, you must use the arbitration or mediation process contained in this section.
- (iii) You may not sue us for our decisions regarding whether good farming practices were used by you.

Interpretation Submitted

The requestor asks if the question of whether a policyholder's production methods constitute "good farming practices" is outside the scope of an Arbitrator's authority as defined in the crop insurance policy.

The requestor interprets section 20(a) to exclude questions as to “good farming practices” from the scope of the crop insurance policy’s arbitration clause. Put simply, the requestor asks for a Final Agency Determination that an arbitrator does not have the authority to make a determination as to what farming practices constitute “good farming practices.” There is a process for the resolution of “good farming practices” questions and this process does not include arbitration. Specifically, section 20(d)(1)(i) of the CCIP Basic Provisions provides that “if you disagree with our decision of what constitutes a good farming practice, you must request a determination from FCIC of what constitutes a good farming practice.” The requestor suggests that FCIC/RMA must make all final decisions as to whether production methods constitute “good farming practices.” An individual arbitrator has no authority, according to the policy language, to venture into such decision-making.

The requestor states the policy and guiding law indicate that the question of whether the production methods used by policyholder were “good farming practices” is a question for the FCIC/RMA, not a private arbitrator. It cannot be overlooked that Congress provided farmers with procedural due process rights regarding Good Farming Practice determinations in its Federal Crop Insurance Act (FCIA) at 7 U.S.C. § 1508(a)(3)(B). “A producer shall have the right to a review of a determination regarding good farming practices made . . . in accordance with an informal administrative process to be established by the Corporation.” Id. Importantly, Congress provided for the “right to judicial review” and that this right applied “without exhausting” administrative review. The requestor respectfully suggests that an Arbitrator lacks authority to decide questions of Good Farming Practices.

The requestor states Good Farming Practices determinations are specifically excluded from the scope of the arbitration agreement under section 20(a)(1) of the CCIP Basic Provisions. Section 20 specifically excludes determinations regarding the propriety of farming practices from an arbitrator’s authority, regardless of what conclusion is reached.

Final Agency Determination

FCIC agrees with the requestor. FCIC must make all final decisions as to whether production methods constitute good farming practices (GFP). GFP determinations are specifically excluded from the scope of the arbitration agreement under section 20(a)(1) of the Common Crop Insurance Policy (CCIP), Basic Provisions.

However, under the section 20(d)(1)(ii) of the CCIP Basic Provisions, if the policyholder disagrees with the AIP's determination of the amount of assigned production or value, the dispute must be resolved through the arbitration or mediation process contained in the CCIP Basic Provisions. A FCIC GFP Determination will not address the amount of assigned production or value.

In accordance with 7 C.F.R. § 400.766(b)(2), this FAD is binding on all participants in the Federal crop insurance program for the crop years the policy provisions are in effect. Any appeal of this decision must be in accordance with 7 C.F.R. § 400.766(b)(5).
